

PROFESSIONAL DOCTORATE OF MODERN MEDIA

The professional Doctorate in Modern Media and Communications provides you with the academic and professional opportunities to develop as an independent, creative and original thinker who is capable of contributing to knowledge and research at the forefront of the discipline.

You will work closely with a supervisory team, whose areas of expertise align with your chosen topic.

You will be based in the dynamic Department of Media, Culture and Creative Industries, which is committed to forward-, outward- and industry-facing research. The training that you will receive and the research that you will conduct should have real-life application.
